ITEM

- 18a. Give: (1) the genealogy, including public and commercial varieties, lines, or clones used, and the breeding method;
(2) the details of subsequent stages of selection and multiplication;
(3) evidence of uniformity and stability; and
(4) the type and frequency of variants during reproduction and multiplication and state how these variants may be identified.
- 18b. Give a summary of the variety's distinctness. Clearly state how this application variety may be distinguished from all other varieties in the same crop. If the new variety is most similar to one variety or a group of related varieties:
(1) identify these varieties and state all differences objectively;
(2) attach statistical data for characters expressed numerically and demonstrate that these are clear differences; and
(3) submit, if helpful, seed and plant specimens of photographs (prints) of seed and plant comparisons which clearly indicate distinctness.

Exhibit A. Origin and Breeding History

200000254

Pedigree: PHKM5<2PHRE1)7322X

Pioneer Line PH4TV, Zea mays L., a dent-like corn inbred, was developed by Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. from the single cross hybrid PHKM5 (Certificate No. 9400097) X PHRE1 (PVP Certificate No. 9300114) using the backcrossing and pedigree method of plant breeding. Varieties PHKM5 and PHRE1 are proprietary inbred lines of Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. Selfing was practiced (after 2 backcrossing generations) for 5 generations using pedigree selection. During line development, crosses were made to inbred testers for the purpose of estimating the line's combining ability. Yield trials were grown at Moorhead, Minnesota, as well as other Pioneer research locations. After initial testing, additional hybrid combinations have been evaluated and subsequent generations of the line have been grown and hand-pollinated with observations again made for uniformity.

Variety PH4TV has shown uniformity and stability for all traits as described in Exhibit C - "Objective Description of Variety". It has been self-pollinated and ear-rowed 5 generations with careful attention paid to selection criteria and uniformity of plant type to assure genetic homozygosity and phenotypic stability. The line has been increased both by hand and in isolated fields with continued observations for uniformity and stability for 4 generations during the final stages of inbred development and seed multiplication. Very high standards for genetic purity have been established morphologically using field observations and electrophoretically using sound lab molecular marker methodology.

No variant traits have been observed or are expected in PH4TV.

The criteria used in the selection of PH4TV were yield, both per se and in hybrid combinations; late season plant health, grain quality, stalk lodging resistance, and kernel size, especially important in production. Other selection criteria include: ability to germinate in adverse conditions; number of tillers, especially important in production because having numerous tillers increases hybrid production costs spent on detasseling; disease and insect resistance; pollen yield and tassel size.

Exhibit B: Novelty Statement

Variety PH4TV mostly resembles Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. proprietary inbred line PHKM5 (PVP Certificate No. 9400097). The data in Tables 1A and 1B are from paired comparisons collected primarily in Johnston and Ankeny, IA. The traits collectively show measurable differences between the two varieties.

Variety PH4TV has wider cob diameter (18.3 mm vs 15.2 mm) than variety PHKM5 (Table 1A, 1B).

Variety PH4TV has less ear weight (27.1 g vs 44.0 g) than variety PHKM5 (Table 1A, 1B).

Variety PH4TV has shorter kernel length (7.1 mm vs 9.2 mm) than variety PHKM5 (Table 1A, 1B).

Variety PH4TV has wider stalk diameter (10.4 mm vs 8.2 mm) than variety PHKM5 (Table 1A, 1B).

Variety PH4TV has longer tassel length (52.3 cm vs 43.9 cm) than variety PHKM5 (Table 1A, 1B).

A t-test was used to compare differences between means and the appropriate parameters have been included. It is difficult to collect standard deviations for table 2 due to the way the historical data was stored.

COMMENTS (eg. state how heat units were calculated, standard inbred seed source, and/or where data was collected. Continue in Exhibit D):

CLARIFICATION OF DATA IN EXHIBITS B AND C

Please note the data presented in Exhibit C, "Objective Description of Variety," are collected primarily at Johnston and Ankeny, Iowa. The data in Exhibit B are from comparisons of inbreds grown in the same tests in Johnston and Ankeny, IA. The data in Tables 1A and 1B are from paired comparisons collected in Johnston and Ankeny, IA. These traits collectively show distinct differences between the two varieties.

The data collected in exhibit C were collected from environments 1999 for page 1 and 2. There are factors that differ from environment to environment. The environments had different planting dates. Environmental temperature and precipitation differences during the vegetative and grain fill periods can impact plant and grain traits and be a source of variability. These data are mostly based on 5 plants measured at each location. There often is more variability associated with environment to environment factors than within locations. Please see Table 3 for average temperature and rainfall information in 1999. In addition, this variety showed susceptibility to Stewart's Wilt in 1999. A high population of flea beetles in 1999 at 2 of our locations may have contributed more variability than usual resulting in higher standard deviations for some traits.

The number of ears per stalk was small probably due to susceptibility to Stewart's Wilt disease that caused many of the plants to go barren. One location in particular had high flea beetle populations and severe Stewart's Wilt. Similar flea beetle populations in 2000 also resulted in a similar low value for ears per stalk.

Notes from our field book indicate that Stewart's Wilt may have caused poorer seed quality than normal in at least 1 of our locations. Poor seed quality probably resulted in lower kwt/100k than normal. Although we also had high levels of flea beetle pressure in 2000 the average kwt/100k in that year was 14 g/100k.
